Fortification of City (Pantomime)

This Pantomime unfolds in the background of fortification of an ancient city in Yin, Shang. Ji'ao, a master of witchery, in assisting his younger brother JiJian in fortification of the city, fell in love to the most beautiful girl called Lansun of the Panlong race. However, she loved and admired Jishang. In a natural calamity, the newly shaped city was destroyed by flood, and the construction right was transferred to Ji'ao.....

This pantomime reveals a unique vision by fathoming the sources of native culture in which one will be enchanted with the poetic floweriness of the ancient civilization along the Yangtze River. On the whole, the pantomime reaches a relatively high level in terms of music, dance and stage art, etc.

The Taste of Lemon Yellow (Youth Drama)

This is a psalmody of youth. Mi Wei, the heroine in this play, leaves home after having a quarrel with her mother, falls in love too early and indulges in cyber chatting that are common problems obsessing the youth. This play gives a particular artistic vision to the real life and youth mindset of those middle school students who grow to develop a kind of real love and affection with their parents, schoolmates and teachers, as can be seen in this aesthetic and romantic scenes mingled with laughter and tears that see the mutual understanding and sentiment developed between one another. With the young heroine as the first person, this play reveals to us the sensitive problems obsessing the young generation. Clear-cut color, profound touches of youth life, and elaborate structure and scenes render this play expressive of campus life in modern time.

Ling River Shadow Play Practitioners (Drama)

The drama is a legend of the folk artists of shadow play in the area of Ling River, in western Liaoning. Two leaders of shadow play families became enemies in their competition for the "Shadow Play King of Rehe". Twenty years later the two families were forced by Japanese invaders to build a railway bridge across the Ling River. The two generations and families let go of their feud and united to fight against the common enemy until their last breath.

Based on the life of least-privileged shadow play practitioners in anti-Japanese wartime Liaoning, the story is unique in its subject matter with drastic conflicts, distinctive characters, and a compact structure. The theme of patriotism and heroism conveys impressive spiritual and artistic strength, and the drama bears profound historical and cultural significance.
